

6th AdriaArray Workshop, San Servolo (Venice), Italy 11 – 14 March, 2025

Dear colleagues,

We would like to draw your attention to the next international workshop on AdriaArray that will be held in San Servolo (Venice lagoon), Italy, on 11 – 14 March, 2025.

The meeting

With the AdriaArray deployment now fully operational and the previous workshop focusing on methodological challenges, we propose that this upcoming workshop shifts its emphasis toward interdisciplinary scientific discussions.

The plenary and poster sessions will highlight topics including seismicity and seismic structure, tectonics, geodynamics and geohazards in the AdriaArray region, with opportunities to delve into specific sub-regions of interest. The workshop will begin on Tuesday morning with interdisciplinary plenary sessions, which will continue through Wednesday and Thursday. In addition, there will be dedicated breakout sessions, poster presentations, focused meetings, and collaborative discussions. On Friday morning, the workshop will conclude with a plenary discussion session, wrapping up around midday.

The maximum capacity of the meeting is 120 participants.

Details on the registration procedure, accommodation options, and the program will be given in the second announcement in the next weeks.

The venue

The meeting will be held at the San Servolo Conference Center, a monumental historic complex on the island of San Servolo in the Venice lagoon. The Centro Soggiorno e Studi on the island is reserved for workshop participants, to combine on-site workspace and accommodation to offer participants the possibility of a pleasant stay a few minutes by waterbus from the historic center (Piazza San Marco).

Save the date – we look forward to meeting you!

Yours sincerely

Claudia Piromallo, Gergana Georgieva, Petr Kolínský, Thomas Meier
